Legume Technologies

Paul Vollbracht is an Organizational Communications Consultant specializing in situations where there is a desire to get a diverse set of people on the same page quickly. He is the founder of Legume Technologies (www.legumetech.com) supplying tools and techniques to help individuals and teams “Think Clearly and Communicate Efficiently.” Paul is the inventor of Legume Diagrams that apply web based techniques to presentation challenges. With an engineering background, Paul spent the major part of his career at SDRC where he helped pioneer techniques for Computer Aided Engineering in the mechanical analysis and design arena. This provided the computer graphics background supporting his current interests. When not “thinking and communicating” Paul enjoys spending time with his wife, 3 children and 6 grandchildren, and is active in his church focusing on the theory and implementation of the Natural Church Development process.
